SUBJECT: Traffic Controller Documentation, Sections BJ.

Since the last time a traffic controller document was issued, the traffic controller has undergone one major and three minor transformations which render all existing tc documentation obsolete.

The attached section BJ.0 and the subordinate sections which accompany it, along with those additional BJ. sections which will be re-issued in the next several days, supersede all existing BJ sections as well as section BG.15.01 (PWN). What's more, it does not reflect the state of the current traffic controller but rather that of the traffic controller to be, and is - for once - ahead of the implementations. (Note that because of the global nature of the change separate sections will not have individual cover letters.)
