Dear Larry:

A few minor points have occurred to me since our meeting last week. One is that if Cordell Green is not familiar with Multics, a recently revised copy of the introductory material to the Multics Programmers' Manual would be an easy way for him to become acquainted. I enclose three copies for your convenience. The second point is that I misspoke the current expenditure level for the computer system research group. The figure should have been closer to $40K/month rather than $45K/month.

Sincerely,

F. J. Corbató
