Dear Jerries,

After some contemplation, I decided that your program needed two things:
1) a much larger data base (more text run through it), and
2) a table of initial digrams as opposed to non-initial ones.

I have added those, using the 40,000 or so words from our spelling corrector as a data base. I'll ship the resulting arrays back to you, if you would like them.

Thanks again,
/Rcc
