

Silvio Micali received his Laurea in Mathematics from the University of Rome in 1978, and his Ph.D. in Computer Science from the University of California at Berkeley in 1983. He joined MIT's faculty in 1983, where is the co-founder and co-leader of the Information and Computer Security Group.

Silvio's long-time research interests are cryptography, zero knowledge, pseudo-random generation, and secure protocols. His latest scientific interest is cryptographic game theory.

Silvio is the recipient of the Goedel Prize (in theoretical computer science) and the RSA prize (in Cryptography). He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, the National Academy of Engineering, and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.