

WW4

[1.] The mammoth dog looked like a baby hippopotamus.

[1.] I might mitigate a friend's sadness by singing in the rain.

[1.] I would try to use a euphemism when describing my enthusiasm for completing "World of Words" sentences.

[1.] The chivalrous knight refused to fight with his starving opponent and invited him to a copious dinner, before killing him in a duel.

[1.] A cultivated person probably enjoys music more than wine but their combination most of all.

[1.] I would like to augment the part of creativity in children's music lessons.

[1.] I procrastinate when I have to write an essay, so that I don't spend countless hours cogitating, but rather let my spontaneity speak under pressure.

[1.] It is mandatory to take humanities classes at MIT, while it is almost impossible at the Swiss Institutes of Technology (EPFZ/EPFL).

[1.] When I reach the pinnacle of success, I will banish shovels, since to be at the top one has to dig about.

[1.] The crowd showed its adulation by camping three days in advance for a one-minute apparition of the sectarian guru.

Nada Amin

March 07, 2002

21F.222 – WW4

namin@mit.edu