

WW6

- [1.] The maverick man greeted people by almost strangling them.
- [1.] A gargantuan workload might include “No sleep for 3 days” as an implicit assignment.
- [1.] It is vital that we sleep, but not obvious.
- [1.] A vivacious teenager needs a lot of sleep.
- [1.] Your plan is not viable because nobody likes to complete already started sentences.
- [1.] When Betty saw the spartan living conditions, she deserted the Army.
- [1.] Pandemonium broke out when the citizens realized the government was part of the terror it was pretending to eradicate.
- [1.] The nominal ruler believes he is more than a seller for tabloids.
- [1.] A pseudonym I would like to use is “Wa Tisiornem”.
- [1.] We boycotted the store because of its insidious order, whose purpose is to incite purchases but whose effect is to give headaches.

Nada Amin
March 21, 2002
21F.222 – WW6
namin@mit.edu

[1.]